

GREEN WITH ENVY

A BOUQUET OF GREENERY SEEMINGLY PLUCKED STRAIGHT FROM THE FIELD IS THE EARTHY BRIDE'S DELIGHT.

1 Bunny Tail Grass
This annual ornamental grass, marked by fluffy ends reminiscent of a bunny's cotton tail, has a name that speaks to spring and whimsy.

2 Green Helleborus
These durable European natives are still found in open meadows in Turkey, Greece, and Italy.

3 Scabiosa flower
Butterflies love scabiosa, also called pincushion flowers. The soft, understated blooms work well as a focal point and as filler.

4 Scented Geranium
The flowers on this species are smaller and less showy than those on the traditional garden geranium, but the fragrance sets it apart. It's a perfect addition to a bouquet dominated by green.

5 Berzillia Berries
Berzillia has clusters of spherical blooms and pine offshoots that add texture to a monochromatic bouquet and give it a woodland feel.
